SENIOR SONG

We pledge now our love for our old W.-B.;
We vow to be ever true.
We pledge, too, our love for our dear Senior Class;
God bless them, the old and the new.
We'll hold high those colors, the Gold and the Blue;
Her banners shall kiss the sky.
Our faith all-resisting, our goal for life's best,
Our motto, "To do or die."

The joys we have here will not fly as the leaves;
They'll last us life's journey through;
And the love we have now for the friendships we've made
Will live in our memories, too;
And though we must part from each other some day,
As Seniors have parted before,
The glorious spirit of old '29
Will linger for evermore.
The miracle of loaves and fish again
Has been accomplished, and from your great store,
O School, we have been fed, but evermore
Shall hunger drive us on to search in vain.
With laughter through the years we trod the lane
That knows no turning; now at last the door
Of Life is opened to us, and the roar
Of cities beats into our hearts like rain.

No more with eager wonder in our eyes
Will you, our teachers, lead us and surprise
Our open minds with “kindly learning’s lore.”
Now others lead us where you led before;
But how, without your loaves and fish and aid,
Could we have faced a world unafraid?

We, the members of the Second-Year College Class, are, although our interests lie in various subjects outside the course leading to an A.B. degree, a sister class to the Seniors.

We find our school a "giver of gifts"—the gifts of instruction in music, art, literature, expression, physical education, and secretarial. To her we intrust our talents that "both giving may be blest."
We, the Senior Middles, feel that our year has been one of adventure. We have tried out our mettle, and have carved ourselves a place in the life of the school. As Seniors next year, we have a double mission—to fill the places of the present class, and to build on their structure one that will be worthy of their comradeship and inspiration in the past year.
We, the members of the Junior Class of '29, have worked unceasingly to make this year one of great success. We have felt the call of duty and the need of education, and have answered it to the best of our ability. Next year, as Junior Middles, we will try to fill the honorable place held by this year's class.

We humbly occupy that middle place which is too near the beginning for us to boast of what we have done, and too far from the end to allow us to tell all we hope to do. We do wish to say, however, that our ideals and aspirations are in keeping with Ward-Belmont's best, and that we are striving to be worthy of a noble place in her records.
This year has been, for us, one of initiation. We have tried to learn the ideals of the school so better to fill the places of the classes who have gone before.

And it is our hope that we, by "striving successfully," will be able to leave a fine record of our class as an inspiration to the classes that are to come.

ART DEPARTMENT

The courses of the Art Department are planned to meet the needs of two groups. Introduction to Art and History of Art bring regular College credit, and are offered especially for those who are working for the regular Ward-Belmont Certificate.

Courses in General Art, Interior Decoration, Costume, and Commercial Advertising are planned for students who wish to make practical application of Art and Design in the commercial world.

The work of the department as outlined seeks to develop the creative ability of the student, skill in drawing, and a knowledge of the fundamental principles of Art. It is so arranged that the student secures the greatest possible return for the time spent in study.

Satisfactory completion of an outlined course will furnish the basis of success in a chosen branch of Commercial Art, or will insure entrance to the more advanced courses offered in the leading Art schools.

Requirements for Certificate in Art:

Introduction to Art 11, 12.
History of Art 21, 22.
English 1, 2.
And Art 13, 14; 21, 22; or Art 15, 16; 23, 24; or Art 17, 18; 25, 26.

Note.—Courses offered by the Junior College Department are not included in the extra charge for the work of this department, although they are required for a certificate of this department.

The French Club was organized for the purpose of studying the language, manners, and customs of the French people. It has had a number of interesting meetings, at each of which there has been a speaker, or an original stunt, a French song, and a French game.

The French Club introduced to the school M. and Mme. Dupart, who sang and danced the folk songs of the old French provinces. Also through the club, M. Marchand presented a group of interesting travel films, which he explained in French. The club has accomplished a great deal toward the better understanding of the French people, and has lived up to its motto: "Instruire en amusant."

CLUB LIFE ON THE CAMPUS

Club meetings, the big old fireplace, the victrola, our club sisters, and the good times we've had together—breakfasts, teas, and dinners at the clubhouse, and our dance—will be the sweetest memories of our school life. It has been a joy to run over to the clubhouse for an afternoon of fun with a group of girls or for a quiet place to read or study alone. Then there were the athletics—hockey, basketball, water polo, baseball—where the competition was between the different clubs; and here we saw that loyalty to our own and good sportsmanship toward the other teams were two of the fine ideals of each of the fourteen social clubs on the campus.

The State clubs were organized in order that those who live in different parts of the same State could become acquainted, and they have become so active now that some of the most enjoyable occasions of the whole year are sponsored by the State clubs.

The Wordsmiths comprise the only literary organization in the College Department. They were not organized for the study of literature, but for the production of wholly original work and for constructive criticism. Not one phase is overemphasized. Articles, essays, short stories, and poems are all produced. In connection with their work the girls visit other literary societies whose purpose is the same as theirs.

The Wordsmiths' aim is to better their own style. Their work is the result of the love of good literature and a desire to create it.
Often you see a girl walking across the campus, a tiny gold pin on her dress.

"What a pretty pin!" you say, looking at the three delicate letters. "What do the initials stand for?"

And the owner murmurs, proudly: "Penstaff."

To her it is more than a pretty pin. It is the symbol of hard work, serious thought, and real attainment. Hard work—the time and energy she has spent perfecting compositions; serious thought—the very best of herself, of her ideals, of her ingenuity; and, last of all, real attainment—the right to wear the gold pin, the right to belong to the literary club, whose chief purpose is to promote ambitious, creative writing.

The Penstaff literary club was begun only last year. Its membership is limited to high school girls—girls who have talent in writing and who will work to perfect that talent.

It makes us think that, after all, we are headed toward the right goals; that we are yearning for a truer and richer fulfillment of life than we appear to be as we wander aimlessly across the campus, tiny gold pins on our dresses.
ALTER EGO

Susan Graham Erwin

(Won first place in Milestone’s contest sponsored by Miss Rhea and Miss Scruggs for best poetry submitted.)

My mother said: “ ’Tis time to end your foolishness, and wed.”
My eldest sister showed me how to smile, and turn my head,
To braid my hair, and lace my gown, and paint my young lips red.

I kissed the rain and wind good-by. Upon my naked feet
I bound the shoes of commonplace, and walked the village street
With sweet, dull face and small, quiet hands the village lads to meet.

I found an honest, great-limbed lad who thought that he would take Me for his quiet-lipped cottage wife to every morning make
His bed, and scour his skillet bright, and sew, and sweep, and bake.

I promised that I’d faithful be to share his joy and pain.
He kissed my mouth, and pledged me love, and then ne kissed again.
He knew not that when ghosts of dreams press gray against the pane
At evening that I laugh, and go to meet them in the rain.

CONCEPTIONS OF HAPPINESS

Lois Maxon

(Won first place in Milestone’s contest sponsored by Miss Rhea and Miss Scruggs for best prose writing.)

I am a shuttle weaving across the warp of life. Sometimes I do not catch the threads; other times I do, weaving in three colors—blood red, ivy green, and white.

Already I have worked a pattern—a pattern of happiness; for there are no threads the color of anger, hate, dull work, or fear. And the more beautiful this pattern shall be, the more I shall have lived.

At first the pattern has little green, and the white is twisted close against the red. It forms a beating heart and a white star. Why are they there? Because for years a little girl thrilled to the brush of wind against her face as she rode a bicycle to school in the fall; because she felt the swing of roller skates under her young feet and at the same time picked a new green leaf off a budding tree; because she fought madly in back-yard trenches with tin vessel lids and mud balls against and with the neighborhood children and her brothers; because she could run so fast coming home from the grocery at five-thirty in November if she could hold her brother’s hand. And then there was that feeling she had when sitting quite still in church, or walking home slowly in a cool evening, or lying awake on Christmas Eve. All of her felt it; but she only saw a blurred radiance around a lily on the altar, or the star above the tall pine in Taylor’s yard that always made her sing, “O thou sublime, sweet evening star,” and then hum the rest all the way home, or the halo around the little yellow flame of the white candle Miss Case sent to burn on Christmas Eve.

Now the pattern is worked in a duller red and a fresh, young green like an April leaf. Roguish Robin Hood and little John, bland Sir William Wallace of Scottish Chiefs, steel-blue-eyed Sir Lancelot and his fiery-tongued dragon, and ethereal Sir Galahad did this, with the aid of a leather armchair, an apple, and a winter twilight. Bach’s fugues and preludes and the wild tossing of MacDowell’s Scottish Poem permeated it all, blending sometimes into the plaintive question of the “Sonata Pathetique” and the calmness of the “Liebestraume.”

Now there is some white, a slender thread nearly hidden by the green; because one day, when every hope was left, every retreat sought and found comfortless, comfort was given in a prayer. And later there was that unmistakable handclasp while singing, “He leadeth me, he leadeth me; by his own hand he leadeth me.” Botticelli gave his “Venus,” all waving Italian trees, flowers, sea foam, and the “Allegory of Spring.” And there is a “Mona Lisa,” a Sistine Chapel, a “Pieta,” every line an unanswered question, an unceasing, silent sorrow. Then Shelley wrote “Adonais,” Tennyson wrote “Ulysses,” and Milton sang for Botticelli in “L’Allegro.”
At last there is a laurel worked in a color the sure intensity of an evergreen. It is there because Mr. Edward Arlington Robinson wrote Treadworn, and I read it. Worked with the ecstasy of beautiful emotion clothed in words that sang like a great voice, with an ardor of passion that nearly consumed it before it was finished, the laurel grows, because the genius of man could create an emotion so true that it was sublimation.

There is a wine glass, too, sometimes gleaming, white gold as a dewdrop on a pink grape, sometimes the red of its own heavy, heady sweetness. And near the top of the pattern there is a glow of red so bright its form cannot be distinguished. The first is there because it meant complete oblivion, absolute detachment; the second is there because it was oblivion and because it was sublime.

And at the last, when the pattern shall be done, I feel that death, the greatest and last experience of life, will simply be the inability of the white fiber, should it then attain a radiance equal to that now present in the red and green, to remain in the pattern. Perhaps it will leave them, and the fire of the red will die, the cool intensity of the green fade. Or perhaps it will blend in their radiance with its own and shoot off like a comet into space.

NOCTURNE

Elizabeth Lee Haynes

(Honorable mention.)

When shepherds watch their flocks by night
In quiet meadows green and cool,
Serene moonlight around them falls,
And makes a molten silver pool
Of all the world. The rolling hills
Climb up to meet the stars. The sound
Of silence palpitating hangs
In air. And faintly from the ground
The clean, sweet fragrance rises up
Of earth and rain. The night winds pass
On lissom, silver-sandaled feet,
And, passing, bend the pliant grass,
And each slim blade is silver-sheathed
In light. Then peace rests like a cloak
Upon the shoulders of the world,
To bless alike both beasts and folk.

SNOW CASTLES

Dorothy Cate

(Honorable mention.)

I watched the snowflakes falling
From out a sky of gray,
And saw them clothe a world of brown
In white that winter day.
Beside my curtained window
A fir tree lifts its head,
And lo! 'twas gone—the snow had left
A castle in its stead.
The steps up to its doorway
Were deep'n'ing drifts of white;
Each silver needle formed a tower
That glittered in the light.
The flakes still fell; through all the day
I stood and watched them so;
And white and silver still it gleams—
My castle in the snow.
COLIN AND ROBIN

Susan Graham Erwin
(Honorable mention.)

If I should marry Colin, I would say,
"Just what will be the price of meat today?"
Or, "Wednesday is bake day." Then I'd sew a frill
On my new apron, and upon the sill
Put out a painted pot of tulips gay.
All this I know would happen if some day
I'd marry Colin.

If I should marry Robin, I would say,
"I found a lovely silver tree today
Upon a hill;" or, "Did you ever know
Bluebells could ring?" And then I'd laugh and go
To gather stars out in the May.
All this I know would happen if some day
I'd marry Robin.

THE SINGER

Josephine Cooper
(Honorable mention.)

And he walks with me,
And he talks with me,
And he tells me I am his own.

The trained voice of the well-paid singer resounded throughout the beautiful church. The preacher fingered his sermon notes. The woman on my right, dressed in expensive mourning, stared, fascinated, at the diamonds on her neighbor's hands. Several girls from the "intermediate department" tried to convey messages to each other across the space filled by a large elderly woman who sat between them. Failing in this, they rose and walked out rather noisily. The woman on my left rapidly wrote on a small pad: "Gray crepe dress, gray suede slippers, gray fox furs, purple hat, violets." The air was heavy from the scent of too many flowers. I yawned. The singer, clasping her hands on her corsage of violets, placed one gray suede slipper forward and sang:

And the joys we shared,
As we tarried there,
None other has ever known.

The sun shone through the purple, stained-glass windows. Its rays seemed to melt into the purple hat the singer wore.

The song echoed throughout the church; but when it reached my heart, it found not a spark of feeling, of understanding; it found only empty nothingness.

My heart was still filled with doubtful longings, with aspirations tinged with fear. These were not alleviated. The response was not there.

"Do all eighteen-year-olds long, doubt, fear, aspire, and then doubt again?"

Rather hastily I changed my line of thought. I have always been somewhat afraid of anything which savored of religion. Wearily I shifted my position.

A September night—a harvest moon—youth—laughter. We were gathered about two cars in front of my house.

"Where'll we go?"
"What'll we do?"
"Who'll go in what?"

These questions remained questions. Why bother to answer? No one could have heard, if any one had cared to answer, on account of the noise.

"Here, this can't go on in front of my house on Sunday night!" I cried. "Mother will be down here in a moment. Let's be off."
I climbed into a roadster. Laura, Jim, and Ed followed. We drove out to the “Pig’n Whistle,” where we ordered sandwiches and Coca-Colas. The red and green lights on the fence surrounding the place; the roaring blaze, over which the meat was cooked; the white-coated negro waiters, dashing madly about; the endless stream of cars, going and coming, gave it an air of restless excitement.

There we acquired Dick. He came up to the car, and, winking at the boys and raising his eyebrows in our direction, asked: “Wanta li’l nip?”

Jim, after waiting for the reply which was not forthcoming from the feminine members of the party, said: “Later, old man; c’mon with us, now.”

We drove off, with Dick.

Rah, rah, rah, all students scream;
Can sb’ wreck any football team?
O, you’ve ave no idea!

Thus sang, or rather shouted, Dick into my ear,
“Don’t try to act ‘tight,’ Dick, and stop yelling into my car! We all know you’ve had a drink. You smell like a brewery.”

“Listen, Babe—” but the rest of Dick’s words were drowned in the general uproar made by four people, taking up the song he had begun:

She’s got a fuzzy wuzzy coat,
And she calls it “raccoon;”
And how that fuzzy wuzzy coat
Can pick up moth balls every June!

At this point, Ed, who had been unusually quiet, for him, announced that it would be a good idea for the boys to stop at the frat house for a minute.

“I know how long their ‘minutes’ are.” I confided to Laura. “They are elastic, regulated by the amount there is in the bottle.”

Laura, taking me at my word, called out: “Leave a package of ‘Luckies’ if you are going to be in there long.”

After what seemed an hour, they returned. I was glad—not that I desired their company especially, but Laura’s eternal “he said” was beginning to wear on my nerves. The boys walked down the steps and got into the car. Jim looked guilty, Ed sheepish, and Dick happier than ever.

On and on we drove, many miles. It grew later. But who cared? What more was there in life, or rather what more was there to be desired, than to ride along at the rate of forty-five miles an hour on a night like that?

Finally, I made myself say: “Turn around, Jim. Home is our next stop.” We turned off the main highway into a winding road. Trees growing on the side of the road grazed our faces. We could not see the limbs, could only shriek and dodge them.

Suddenly, Jim stopped the car. As I looked up to see why, the flippant remark died on my lips. Every one, with common consent, stopped talking.

A tiny lake lay at our feet—still, black, and mysterious. The farther shore rose—up—up—until it merged into what looked like a miniature mountain, whose ragged ridge cut the sky. The moon shone, bright and full, down on the water, where it formed a gleaming, shimmering path of silver ripples, which stretched across the lake. At one place on the lake it seemed to drown the very darkness in silver. There the path spread into a lovely, ever-moving, shining bit of silver cloth, which narrowed again into the ribbon which now came almost to our feet. One little star shone beside the moon, as if in apology for its fellows, who were hiding.

Laura, flicking her half-smoked cigarette away, just looked—that’s all—with a half-wistful, half-awed expression on her face. Jim and Ed sat with bared heads and gazed at that shining thing in the heavens and its reflection on the lake below.

And then beautiful strains were voicing the words in my heart:

And he walks with me,
And he talks with me,
And he tells me I am his own.

Could it be true? Was Dick singing, or was it merely the echo of the morning services which had awakened no response in my heart? A lump came into my throat. All at once I felt subdued and sad, then happy and exalted.

Without warning, Jim started the car, and we jerked forward. Dick laughed uneasily as he hopped upon the running board. Every one looked as if he were trying to think of something to say, but we were a rather sober crowd of young people riding back to town. The usually irresponsible Dick was quieter than any of us. No one mentioned the experience, either then or later. I have no way of knowing what effect it had on any of them except for the expression on their faces and the hope that it was Dick who gave us those unbelievably sweet strains from "In the Garden." I can hardly analyze the effect it had on me. Something unexplainable came over me with a rush, and I felt the answer to all my fears, doubts, and longings.

THE SERVANTS' PROGRAM

BETTY LANE

(Honorable mention.)

The night before I left school to go home for Christmas vacation I went into chapel with a sort of open-minded tolerance. I was not enthusiastic, but I was ready to be amused. With the rest of the girls, I had contributed to the fund for the servants' Christmas presents. Tonight they were giving us a program to show their appreciation. The whole affair was in their hands—decorations, rehearsals, selections—and, in spite of my preoccupation with leaving for home, I felt that the program would be distinctly "different."

When the curtain was drawn back, I beheld a piano and a Christmas tree in the center of the stage, with a most fascinating gilt moon above it. The sides of the stage were flanked by rows and rows of negroes, all decorously dressed in black and white, with their black skin and white teeth heightening the effect. I looked them over critically. Dr. Barton had said that every servant in school would be there. It certainly seemed true. They were all there, from wide, comfortable Mandy from the infirmary to the new mulatto cook who affected a cap and sideburns a la French chef. I searched for familiar faces. Yes, there was Whittaker, our butler, and Ethel, our hall maid. Good old Ethel! I had asked her that morning: "Well, Ethel, are you going to sing tonight?"

"Me, miss? Well, Ab'll sing with de crowd," she answered. After a respectful pause, she ventured: "Does you sing all alone, miss?"

I had ruefully to admit: "No, Ethel, I'm like you. I sing with the crowd."

Except for the wonderful singing, the program was interesting mainly for its human appeal. I could not feel that Maggie Majors had the makings of a female Paul Robeson, but she made me think of Browning's words: "What I aspired to be, and was not, comforts me." Her acute embarrassment when she forgot a line told me that her appearance before us was a more momentous event to Maggie than her debut in Thais could possibly have been to Jeritza. Maggie cared tremendously about her "reading" being a success; Maggie had certainly aspired. Well, I thought, with Browning still in the back of my mind, "A man's reach must exceed his grasp, or what's a heaven for?" Then there was the amiable-looking servant with the name of Theodore Wilson. How sheepish had been his look at the amusement his name had caused the audience! I thought of the bluff, virile Theodore Roosevelt and the austere, idealistic Woodrow Wilson, arch-rivals to the last. What would they think at having their names coupled to form the appellation of the sheepish, amiable negro? Here certainly was laughter for the gods! When each servant had received his present of eight dollars, "Baker" William made a most delightful "thank-you" speech. "Baker" William was very black and had a broad, jolly grin. He sailed into his speech with all the gusto of a Webster, and informed us that he was "proud to stand in the midst of America's foremost female institution." He ended his speech with the traditional phrase: "We thank you once, we thank you twice, we thank you thrice."

The singing was really a treat. A mixed chorus sang "Silent Night;" "Baker" William and his quartet of "singing waiters" sang "Good News—the Chariot's Coming;" then at the last the whole congregation sang "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," in tones as mellow as a choir of cellos. This singing I knew was entertainment that money could not buy. It was given out of grateful hearts.

The naive, trusting attitude of these simple black people toward the school touched me. That they trusted the school was shown in the simple blessing that the negro preacher asked on Dr. Blanton, and by "Baker" William's speaking of "the Christlike spirit in dear old Ward-Belmont." That the school had not belied their trust was testified to by Aunt Bell's presence on the stage. Aunt Bell had served the school faithfully for twenty-nine years, and now she will "never have a want if the school can supply it."

Their last song was "God be with you till we meet again," and I got on the train next day with it still ringing in my ears. It was a most fitting close to a delightful and unusual program.
THE LEGEND OF THE SHAWONDASEE

KATHERINE BACHMAN

(Honorable mention.)

In the days when the Red Man was mighty, when the Paleface with his gun had not come to drive the Indian from his hunting ground, the favored tribe of the Mighty One roamed through the valley of the Cumberland. Lucky in their hunting they were, and lucky in their wars. Their corn grew tall and strong and produced a bountiful harvest. Their young men were brave and handsome, their maidens famed afar for their beauty. Favored of the Great Spirit, they lived happy in their village near the great rock, Shawondasee, protecting with its strength their greatest treasure.

Down from the sky this treasure had come one day—one clear day—when the Mighty One above had stumbled and a silver feather had fallen from his hair, had swirled and dipped downward till it lit upon the earth, light in its flight as the butterflies sailing about the flowers. And the Mighty One, looking down upon it as it lay gleaming in the forest, covered it with a great rock, that the hand of man might never be laid upon it. So the Shawondasee was sacred, standing aloof in its majesty never approached by the inhabitants of the land, who were blessed by the presence of the silver feather, and prospered.

Into this pleasant land there came a stranger, tall and handsome, with his coat of bear-skin and his belt of wampum, but weary, for he had come from far. Straight through the village near the Shawondasee he strode with his silent steps, straight to the largest wigwam, to the wigwam of the old chief, Kebue.

Kebue greeted him kindly, invited him into the cool wigwam, offered food and drink to him. Then when the stranger had eaten and rested, he said to his host: "Now, old man, I shall tell you my name and whence I come. I am Wabano, of a tribe far to the west. I have heard of the marvelous beauty of your daughter, the fair Nenemoosha, and I have come to woo her, to take her back to be my squaw." But he raised not his eyes when he spoke, only looked into a dark corner of the wigwam, for he knew that he was lying to the old chief. But Kebue noticed nothing, for his eyes were growing dim as his years increased, and so he was pleased with the words of the handsome Wabano, invited him to stay in the village, gave him a wigwam to live in while he wooed the lovely Nenemoosha.

But Nenemoosha was sad, for she loved not the shifty-eyed Wabano, but Osseo, a youth of her own tribe. As tall and slender as a young sapling Osseo was, and strong and honest and fearless. But old Kebue liked him not, only grunted at the maiden's timid defenses of her lover, and ordered Wabano to hasten his wooing.

Wabano only listened and nodded and paid no attention, for little he cared about the daughter of Kebue, with her gentle eyes and her soft voice, like the birds calling to one another at sunset. Only one desire he had, only one purpose in his coming, one reason for staying in the village near the sacred Shawondasee. Into his land far west toward the setting sun had come the story of the marvelous silver feather fallen from the head of the Great One himself, bringing happiness and prosperity to the people who lived around it as it lay under the Shawondasee. And so he had journeyed for many moons, over the plains with their buffalo, across the rivers and that mightiest river of them all, to the valley of the Cumberland, to the land of Kebue, come to find the silver feather, to steal it from its people, to take it back to his land in the sunset.

But it lay safe, protected by the mighty weight of Shawondasee, near which no man dared venture, no man except Wabano the Stealer, believing not that the Great Spirit had made it sacred, scornful of the wrath of the Mighty One. "I will dig a tunnel," said Wabano to himself—"dig a tunnel from my wigwam on the hill to Shawondasse in the forest. I will take the lucky feather from this simple tribe, from that stripling Osseo, from the weak old man, Kebue. And I will bear away the maiden, the beautiful Nenemoosha, to make all my tribe envy me for her loveliness, for her gentle voice."

So at night, when the village was silent as a village of ghosts, silent in the misty moonlight, and only the far call of Kahgahooee, the owl, floated through the stillness, then Wabano labored, dug all through the night until the birds began twittering sleepily and the mist began to rise from the treetops, dug every night until the summer was almost spent.

Still Nenemoosha refused to smile upon him, was silent when he approached her with his honeyed words, was sad except in the presence of Osseo. And still old Kebue was scornful of Osseo, would not believe that he could fish and hunt even as the old man himself had done in his youth.

Then said Osseo to himself: "I will go forth and hunt, go to the distant mountains, bring back to Kebue proof of my prowess, win the hand of my Nenemoosha." So he took his bows, took his mightiest arrows and his heaviest war club, and bade farewell to Nenemoosha.

"Do not go, beloved," she begged him. "Do not leave me here with Wabano." But he was only more determined to go and make trial of his skill.

"If you want me," said he, gently, "you have only to call. Call me, and I shall return." So he left her, and she returned sadly to her wigwam, through the sunshine which seemed as darkness, across the green grass which was dull and brown to her, through the village which seemed empty and deserted to her. Even her steps, no longer light as the kiss of the breeze upon the treetops, brought forth a hollow sound. But Nenemoosha knew not that there below her coiled a tunnel like a giant snake about to strike at the silver feather. She hardly heard the hollow sound, only thought that all the earth was mourning with her as she wept and longed for Osseo. And Wabano, seeing her, smiled craftily to himself; for soon his tunnel would be finished, and he would bear her away, Nenemoosha and the silver feather together.

Already far distant, Osseo sped on his way, searching for opportunity to prove his strength and bravery to the old chief, Kebue. Through the dews of early morning he hunted, through the heat of the day, until the lengthening shadows grew dim and the far purple horizon faded into the sky and the first stars appeared above him. At last one day he found that which he sought, found the great she-bear of the mountains. Fought her and killed her, took her skin to show to Kebue, started homeward with his trophy.

Suddenly a cry came to him—a cry of anguish borne above all the sounds of the forest, borne to him by the friendly West Wind. Bearing still his bearskin with him, with great bounds he jumped over rocks and fallen trees, sailed at one leap over dashing brooks or placid pools. The Great One, pitying him, gave wings to his feet, so that he flew as swiftly as the wind, and as silently.

Soon he dashed into the village lying motionless in the starlight. Straight to old Kebue's wigwam he sped through the silence, to the old chief's wigwam, where a figure rose to meet him from the shadows by the doorway.

"I knew that you would come, beloved," breathed the soft-voiced Nenemoosha. "I am frightened as the rabbit when the Indian dogs pursue him; for I had a terrible dream, thought I saw my father's guest, Wabano, coming from a gloomy passage, from a tunnel which ended in his wigwam, in his hands a silver feather, on his face a leer of triumph. Then I heard him following after me, saw that he was gaining on me, felt his hot breath on my shoulder suddenly awoke in trembling, came out from the wigwam to await your coming."
Startled by her words, by the dread events they foretold, Osseo left the maiden standing there, leaped with great strides up the hill to Wabano's wigwam, peered inward through the entrance, saw Wabano lifting up a deerskin rug to disclose a gaping passage.

In rage Osseo sprang upon him, but he fled like a shadow, through the village into the forest, toward the sacred Shawondasee. High up on its top he sprang, stood there triumphant upon it, dared Osseo to approach closer to the holy spot, defied the anger of the Great Spirit.

The Great One heard his cries and saw him standing there. In his wrath he hurled one mighty thunderbolt, and one great flash of lightning, like the blaze of a thousand sunrises, rolled into one streak of light; so that for miles around the people were wakened and the frightened birds began to chatter. It split the sacred rock, the Shawondasee, into two parts. And Wabano, he who had come to steal the silver feather, who had dared to provoke the anger of the Mighty One, was swallowed up within the rock and it closed over him.

But the Shawondasee was no longer sacred. No longer could it stand as a monument of the love of the Great Father for his people beside the Cumberland. So when Osseo returned leading the villagers, with Nenemoosha clanging to his arm, he looked in vain for the Shawondasee. There was only a shallow depression in the earth where it had stood, already covered with grass waving in the breeze, with a few small trees casting somber shadows in the moonlight.

Then the people returned to the village, went to the wigwam of Wabano, found the tunnel leading down the hill toward the glade in the forest where the Shawondasee had stood. And they stopped up the mouth of the tunnel, and Osseo set on fire the wigwam of Wabano. It flared up with a mighty blaze, grew until it seemed to touch the stars, suddenly died down, leaving no trace, not even a cinder or a charred stick of the wigwam of Wabano.

But the tunnel was not destroyed; for when the people walked through the village and the ground under their feet sounded hollow to them, they knew that they were passing over the passage of Wabano. And the children, as they ran and played about the village, by the hollowness were reminded of the wonderful events which had taken place when the great chief, Osseo, had been young and handsome, suitor for the hand of Nenemoosha.

For long and weary years the tunnel stayed there, grieved that the descendants of Osseo and Nenemoosha, the fair one, were driven from their hunting ground, watched the White Man's village on the banks of the Cumberland grow into a prosperous city. Sad it saw the White Man warred upon by his brother, saw a war more terrible than the Indians had dreamed of, heard the thunders which came not from the clouds, saw the smoke which came not from camp fires, pitying the people of the city, opened once more its gloomy entrance, was a shelter for the women and the children. But when at last the smoke of conflict had lifted from the suffering city, then in the silent night the entrance closed again, in the morning was not there, was only a memory when the sun rose over the hills of the land of Kebue.

But the legend of the tunnel lingers still in the city, is whispered by maidens from all the land as they go about the campus of their college, as their light steps bring forth a hollow sound like the hollow words of Wabano as he wooed the lovely Nenemoosha, like the hollow words of Wabano the Stealer when he lived in the land of the Shawondasee on the banks of the Cumberland.
IN THE WAKE OF THE "WHY"

Saturday night the followers of the "Why" met in the Faculty Sitting Room for a meeting of song and noble thought together.

"Chady" Strong presided. After the regular business of changing seats so all could sit side by side, "Chady" called upon Robbie Flaniken to make the evening's talk. The theme was, "The Popular Use of Peroxide." She dealt ably with her subject in fluent German, citing as hideous examples of the habit such addicts as Rose Moore, Jean MacDonnell, Frances Lamar, and Betty Schmittbauer. The meeting closed when Helen Fell er sang an angelic solo, accompanied by Margie Northrup on the harp.

The members of the "Why" presented a snappy musical revue in chapel Monday morning before breakfast. The Brun Sisters hoofed, while the Newman Twins sang, with background offered by the Stewart Twins. "Bunny" Eberhart introduced the members of the revue to the audience, and after the meeting many of the girls flocked to the platform to compliment them on their rendition of this interesting number.

DANCE RECITAL BRILLIANT AFFAIR

Ward-Belmont School may swell up and burst if it were not so used to success over the recital of dancing presented by Miss Blythe's classes at the Ryman Auditorium recently. There, to view the results of this year's labors on Miss Blythe's part and corns on the dancers' feet, was assembled such a body of wits and near-wits as Nashville has rarely seen.

To add further dignity to the occasion, Miss Morrison appeared in a red décolleté robe de soir, wearing a beautiful diamond and ruby tiara, which was formerly of the McComb collection.

As to the dancers, they appeared in little or nothing of importace, except their handsome partners from Fisk. To these graceful dancing partners the Dancing Class wishes to attribute the addition of local color to the performance.

The program was varied in both mood and theme, representing fits of all ages. Those appearing were: Gwendolyn McConnell, Louise Rogers, Frances Hoffman, Neil Tyson, Alberta Gooch, and Helen Brown, in the toe-dancing class; Dorothy Black, Margaret Timmons, Georgia Black, and Peg McDonald, in the masked acrobatic class; Marjorie Oleson, Jean Perry, Natalie Hines, Marjorie Barlay, and Louise Graves, in the aesthetic class.

DIARY OF MISTRESS BELLE WARD

Wednesday, 17th.—Awakened by Pat at 11:30, at which time I did take my morning bath and skip my noble classes. Joe called to ask me to a cabin party next week-end, but Mrs. \"Charley\" will not let me go. Being perfectly furious, I consoled myself by spending my last hundred bucks for a dream of an evening dress for the Kappa Sig dance tonight. Big time! Was in high spirits at the dance. Met darling boys. Do believe I fell in love with Hart. Didn't get home until three, so did tip-toe past Mrs. \"Charley\"'s\" door, and to bed.

Thursday, 18th.—Was forced to rise at an early hour, as the maid refused to answer my phone more than five times. It was the insistent Mrs. Armstrong who could not be content until I explained to her, in person, my cuts for the three classes of the day before. Did go plunging this afternoon to try my skill in swallowing, and find that it takes but three good gulps to drain a 25x60 foot pool. Patro-nized the tearoom, and did step to the Wandering Blues music. Spent half an afternoon and my perfectly good nature trying to teach \"Snake\" how to blow twelve rings in one drag. Would have considered this an un-eventful day had it not been for the pajama parade down to raid the kitchen and storeroom tonight after light bell. And so to bed!

AUNT ABIGAL'S ADVICE TO THE ANXIOUS

Dear Aunt Abigal:
Something baffles me. I wish you would help me. I can't express my suppressed desires.
Sincerely,
“Chris” Caldwell.

Dear “Chris”:
I can easily understand your predicament. I can’t express them, either, in the MILESTONES. I should advise that you continue to suppress them. Avidly,
Aunt Abigal.

Dear Aunt Abigal:
What can I do to convince my teachers, especially Misses Temple, Ross, and Morrison, of my ever-increasing interest and undying devotion to my duties?
A little girl,
Jean Wilson.

Dear Jean:
If you mean social duties, you have already convinced them.
Reprovingly,
Aunt Abigal.

Dear Aunt Abigal:
How can I keep my name out of print? I am afraid I shall get conceited if it occurs again.
Anxiously,
“Marj” Barclay.

Dear Marjorie:
Naughty child! I know you. You can’t fool your old Aunty. You wrote to me merely to get your name in the MILESTONES. However, in case you are telling the truth, I shall endeavor to aid you. Do not worry about your name. Merely be thankful that you are not an unknown quantity, such as Louise Graves or Mildred Schaefer.
Aunt Abigal.

Dear Aunt Abigal:
I am going to Europe with Miss Ross’ party. My family is giving me the trip because I’ve never smoked a cigarette. Now, do you think it would be all right for me to try Cubebs while abroad so that I will look savoir-faire?
Jean Stotzer.

Dear Jean:
I’d try Stogies or Bull Durham. Then I’m sure you’d look whatever word that is.
Aunt Abigal.

Dear Aunt Abigal:
We are furious, Auntie! Miss Irvin has just put a notice on the bulletin board in Middlemarch that we’re to smoke no more Spuds in “Rec” Hall, because the smoke gets so think that Whittaker has to use a fog horn to reach the door.
Now, what, O what, will we do? You know that we’ll never be able to go without our Spuds every five minutes on dates. Please advise us at once, as we all have dates with the Dekes and the S. A. E.’s here tomorrow night.
Ever yours,
The Seniors.

MASCOT - LADY GODIVA!

OUR Flower
MAY DAY

Among the traditions of Ward-Belmont, one of the loveliest is the celebration of May Day. The campus lends itself to pageantry most effectively, and the south slope of the lawn fairly calls for dancers, sprites, and elves.

How many gay processions have trod along the drive! How many beautiful girls have received the crown of Queen of the May! How many Senior classes have formed a picturesque background for the festivities of spring’s return! The gay array of past May Days passes in review in a stream of blended colors gently blown along by soft breezes and graciously led by all the ancient traditions of May celebrations from the beginning of time.

This year brings another May, another Queen, and the College and Prep maids, and to the new girls there comes for the first time a realization of what the school pledge song really means when it says:

Giver of gifts,
Treasurer of beauty!
To thee we bring our youth
In glad surrender,
That we, and thee,
Both giving, may be blessed!
Ward-Belmont!
Ward-Belmont!

GEORGE WASHINGTON DINNER

Washington’s birthday dinner was a festive occasion and an echo from the past.

Dressed in hoop skirts and ribbons, in satin knee breeches and powdered wigs, the modern Marthas and Georges transformed the atmosphere of the school into one of crinoline days. It was as though the Old Home, ablaze with light, was having once more another of the balls for which it was famous.

Promptly at six o’clock, Rose Flentye, as George, and Christine Caldwell, as Martha, descended the colonial staircase in Recreation Hall, and, escorted by their court, wound their way through the hall, which is in itself a reminder of the past, into the dining rooms.

After dinner the host and hostess, followed by their entire court, watched the stately minuet danced in the gymnasium. The dancers, who were members of the Senior Class, formed an aisle, through which George and Martha, escorted by two pages, took their places on a raised dias and from there watched the minuet. Following the minuet, the entire school danced to the strains of lively modern music. As “Home, Sweet Home,” was played, one of the most popular traditions of the school faded into only a memory. Good nights were called over the snow-covered campus, and powdered wigs, lace frills, crinoline, and ribbons disappeared like phantoms.
Wandering Blues! Harmony of jazz and rhythm. Symphony of sound. The Wandering Blues are well-known in school social circles for their frequent entertainment and their well-liked dance music.

In the tea room, at dances, at social club teas, you will see them in their white ducks and blue sweaters. Wherever they are, there the crowd is thickest and the merriment maddest. The wail of a sax—oh! Those bloo—oo—ues!

SEYBOLD BUILDING
MIAMI
Music Will Complete the Joys of Your Home

Magnificent furniture, rare paintings, and exquisite drapery are evidences of affluence and good taste; but what do these things, beautiful as they may be, contribute to the culture and happiness of the owner? That a house is wonderfully furnished does not by any means indicate that it is a happy home. Something more is required, and that is music.

Music from time immemorial has always been and still is the greatest entertainer the world has ever known. In the most beautiful homes, in the humblest abode, its influence is recognized.

What a sad commentary to see a home without a musical instrument!

Then let us not forget the importance of a fine piano, a Duo-Art Reproducing Piano, Orthophonic Victrola or dependable Radiola. All of these as well as every musical requirement are available at “Music Headquarters” upon most convenient terms.

AS linked its traditions with those of Ward-Belmont in the growth of Nashville—has ever felt keen interest in the success of the South’s educational progress—and pledges a continuance of loyalty and support in the years to come.

LEBECK BROS. extends congratulations to the class of 1929, wishing each member success and happiness in her future life.
